

HERALD AND NEWS

VOL. XXXIV. NO. 10--1781.

RANDOLPH, VT., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1907.

PRICE THREE CENTS.

Holiday Goods

Here is Where Santa Claus Fills His Pack.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

Dolls and Toys,
Electrical Toys,
Mechanical Toys,
Iron Toys,
Sleds,
Skates,
Hockey Clubs,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

FOR THE HOME.

Fine Furniture,
Rugs,
Art Squares,
Dinner Sets,
Fancy China,
Japanese Ware,
Cut Glass,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

Come Early, Make your Selections While our Stock is Complete.

Everything in Christmas Post Cards and Post Card Albums.

W. E. LAMSON
RANDOLPH, - - VERMONT.

Lest You Forget!

We will just mention the fact that you can now get those

Bath Room Fixtures Placed

just as well as in the summer. Also anything in the line of Stove, Hot Air Furnace, Steam or Hot Water Heating.

HAVE YOU EVER TRIED THE SECURITY STOCK FOOD?

If not, please do so. Absolutely guaranteed; your money back if not satisfactory. Full stock of

LUMBERMEN'S SUPPLIES:

Axes, Cant Hooks, Cable Chain, Cross-Cut and Drag Saws, and a full stock of 5-A Horse Blankets.

J. H. LAMSON & SONS.

REMEMBER,

While We Are Doing Your Plumbing and Heating Jobs,

We have a host of other goods for sale such as Cooking Stoves and Ranges of any and all kinds, new and second-hand. New Glenwood Ranges coming every week, from $35.00 up, Heaters, Beckwith Oaks and Glenwood Oaks, Air Tights and Tight Airt. Two big bargains in Beckwith Round Oaks, slightly used, but as good as new, one all piped for heating water for your stock automatically, no more ice in your water tank, no more old fire traps around your buildings, come and see it.
One more Fur Coat and a few Horse Blankets and Robes. Utility Corn Popper, it's a wonder, get one. The most wonderful Oil or Gasoline Can you ever saw, without pump or faucet, how to get the oil out is a wonder, call and see it for yourself.
All kinds of repair work done in the metal line, our shop is brim full of work, get your orders in at the front door, the work completed goes out through the back door.
Another large lot of International Stock Food in, the kind that every body knows is the food to feed.

J. J. TRERISE & CO.

New Walnuts, All Kinds of Grapes, Florida Oranges and Grape Fruit,
NEW FIGS AND DATES, ALSO ALL KINDS OF

Choice Fruit, Confectionery and Cigars.
OLIVE OIL, THE REAL ARTICLE, ALWAYS KEPT IN STOCK.
New England and People's Phones. RANDOLPH FRUIT CO.

High Class Goods At Lowest Prices

JERD'S CITY MARKET,

MAIN STREET. 'PHONE 48-11.

NOW IN!

Fall and Winter Samples of Tailoring Goods.
All New Things Right Up-to-Date.
I have arranged with one of the best Special Order Houses in New York to fill orders for garments, for those who prefer that kind of goods.
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED.

G. J. ROCKWELL, RANDOLPH.

Custom Made Suits, Overcoats and Trousers, $18.00 and Upwards.

Edison Phonographs and Records.

The Latest Sheet Music Out, 20 Cents.

Cleaning and Pressing Suits, Skirts, Jackets, Etc.,

KENNEY'S, MAIN STREET, 'Phone 8-12.

WHAT IS DOING THE WORLD OVER.

A WORD ABOUT THE LEADING EVENTS OF THE WEEK.
Close of the Football Season.

Thanksgiving day, Pennsylvania defeated Cornell at Philadelphia, 12 to 4.
Saturday, at the same city, Annapolis beat West Point, 6 to 0. These are the final games of the season, which has been the most interesting and best patronized of any season. The new rules, encouraging open play, have removed much of the danger and roughness, and have made the game more pleasing to witness. Of the big college teams Yale is considered to have won highest place, having been beaten only once, by West Point, early in the season. Pennsy, despite her bad beating by Carlisle, ranks second, for she beat Cornell, who beat Princeton, who beat the Indians. The latter was the only defeat suffered by the Indians, who played a remarkable game, defeating Pennsy, Harvard, Chicago and Minnesota. Dartmouth had an unbeaten team that put it over Harvard and many other antagonists.

Congress Begins Its Session.
The Sixtieth Congress began its session Monday. Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois was chosen speaker of the House, and John Sharpe Williams of Mississippi the Democratic leader. President Roosevelt's message was received Tuesday. He recommended the passage of laws to control corporations doing interstate commerce; to license such corporations; to reform the currency system; to provide an income and inheritance tax; to create a postal savings system and parcel post; to repeal tariff on wood pulp; to increase the navy.
He opposed general tariff revision until after the next election.

Convicted at Last.
"Dr. Lucy Hagenow, a woman abortionist of Chicago, who is said to have caused 1000 deaths in the 37 years of her practice, was convicted of murder last week and sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary. The ante-mortem statement of the sister of Mrs. Bradley, recently on trial at Washington, was part of the evidence that convicted her.

Mrs. Bradley Acquitted.
Mrs. Annie M. Bradley was acquitted of the murder of Senator Brown of Utah at Washington, D. C. Tuesday.
She shot him in that city a year ago, going to his room in a hotel. He had refused to marry her, after having maintained clandestine relations with her.

New Japanese Ambassador.
Japan has called Viscount Aoki, its ambassador at Washington, home to make report on the relations between this country and Japan. It is announced that no significant attachments to the country, affecting the relations of the two countries but that another ambassador will probably come.

Baker Died of Arsenic.
The report of the physician who made the analysis in the case of Walter Farnworth Baker, the Boston young man who died mysteriously in New York, is to the effect that arsenic was found plentifully in the body. No arrest has been made.

Root-Grant Wedding.
Miss Edith Root, daughter of Secretary Root and daughter of Ulysses S. Grant, 3d, grandson of Gen. Grant, were married at Washington, D. C. last week, at a notable ceremony, attended by the president and other guests of prominence.

Foraker Out for the Presidency.
Senator J. B. Foraker of Ohio has announced his purpose to stand for the Republican presidential nomination, and will ask for a general primary of Republican voters to see where the state stands.

Caught Short and Failed.
The American Silk company, with a capital of $11,000,000, was unable to raise $475,000 in money last week and receivers were appointed. The business will continue, as the concern is solvent.

Cannon Opposes Parols Post.
Speaker Cannon, it is announced, is opposed to the parcels post idea, promoted by Postmaster-General Meyer, and may seek to give it the quietus before it reaches the House.

No More Men Needed at Panama.
From Panama comes word that no more help is needed, as the canal enterprise is using all the men it can at present.

SOUTH RANDOLPH School opened Monday with sixteen scholars, Miss Olive Hanks teacher.

E. J. Greene of Randolph spent Thanksgiving with his sister, Mrs. E. J.
Prince.

Mr. McPheters and family and Mrs.
Sarah Kelsey and family spent Thanksgiving at John Bennett's.

E. S. Paine and Miss Lucy Paine of Bethel, also C. C. Paine and family of this place, were guests of A. P. Paine and Miss Paine Thanksgiving day.

The Food for Poultry in Winter.
Much time and money have been spent in what seems an almost vain endeavor to make hens produce eggs in cold weather.
It requires but little experience with poultry to learn the fact that, under ordinary circumstances, hens cannot produce as many eggs in winter as in summer. Summer is the natural time for the laying of eggs, and in order to increase winter production there must be reproduced for the fowls as nearly as possible conditions that exist in summer. Walter E. Crawford of North Vassboro, Me., has apparently tried to do this, so far as feeding his fowls is concerned. Here is a letter from him:—"Page's Perfect Poultry Food" is better than you claimed it was, and I would not try to keep hens another winter without it." Anyone sending his address on a postal card to C. B. Page, Hyde Park, Vt., and mentioning this paper, will receive by mail, free, postpaid, a sample package of "Page's Perfect Poultry Food."

Randolph.

GEORGIA WHITE, Local Editor.

Fashion's Light-Weight Goods.
The ground is white with winter's snow.
Thermometers go 'way below.
From yawns icicles bristle.
The swift winds pump at hide-an'-seek And race 'round fields with gleeful shrill, Or round the corners whistle.

The wild things sleep in hairy hurs
Or, clad in all their thickest furs,
Are through the forest a-slinking.
But mimic down the frozen street
With low-cut shoes upon her feet,
The dainty maid is walking.

Right through the drifts she gaily saunters
On heels much like ten-penny nails;
And open lace-work hosen
The pretty creature bravely wears
And stoically then declares
She truly isn't frozen.

When one beholds the modish waist-
A thing of beauty and of taste-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor,

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

One wonders if her maiden grace
Is like the Indian, all fire-
That shields her delicate figure
In its colorful, warm embrace
Of rich insertion and of lace,
From all the wintry rigor.

Rogers-Banister.

Miss Ida Belle, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Banister, was married Sunday afternoon in Montpelier to John W. Rogers of that city. Rev. H. A.
Buzell, pastor of the Baptist church of Montpelier, was the officiating clergyman, and the wedding took place at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rogers.

The bride was gown in a brown traveling suit, and the couple came at once to Randolph. The groom is employed in the barber shop of W. O. Estey of Montpelier and the bride has been for some time a very popular clerk in the Baswell book store at the capital.

They are to live with the groom's parents at 30 St. Paul street, Montpelier.

A Head Nurse in Charge.

After more than two months of diligent investigation and looking about, Superintendent W. H. Gladding has established a head nurse at the Randolph sanatorium. Miss E. E. Folsom of Burlington, who was graduated five years ago and has been in constant practice ever since.

She comes through the highest recommendation of Dr. Andrews, who is at the head of Mary Fletcher hospital in Burlington, and it is thought that the friends of the sanatorium have reason to congratulate themselves on the choice of a head nurse and can feel safe in placing their sick ones in charge of one so efficient as Miss Folsom.

The directors and friends ask a full support and patronage of this worthy institution.

Death of Mrs. Mary Waters.

Mrs. Mary (Wheeler), widow of Azro Waters, Sr., died Sunday morning from the wasting effects of consumption, having been ill for some time.

She had been living with her son, Azro Waters, Jr., in order to make a home for him and his little daughter, but the day before her death was removed to the house of her daughter, Mrs. Newell King, on Water street.

Mrs. Waters, who had reached the age of 76 years, was born in Middlesex, but of the third marriage was Edgar Waters of Randolph. She first married Lewis H.
Esters and the children of that union are Charles E. Esters of Nashua, N. H., and Mrs. Abbie Spencer of Barre. Her second husband was Robert Tansley, by whom she had one daughter, Mrs. Kate Comstock of South Barre. The children of the third marriage are Edgar Waters of Brookfield, Azro Waters, Jr., and Mrs.
Newell King of Randolph.

The funeral was held at the King home Monday afternoon. Rev. Fraser Metzger of Bethany church officiating, and interment was made in Southview cemetery.

All the children of the deceased were present at the service with the exception of Charles Esters and Edgar Waters.

Coming thro' the Rye.

The much-heralded comic opera company, "Coming thro' the Rye," was at Chandler Music hall Wednesday night and, naturally, was greeted by a large and more-or-less critical crowd.

Comic opera is rather of a novelty in Randolph, and a ballet is a considerable departure from the old Puritan standards in which we have been educated to shudder at a shuffling of feet to the scraping of a wicked fiddle. A few of our people have occasionally escaped to the city long enough to learn something of the diversions of a metropolis, but advanced ideas in Terpsichorean art have not heretofore been engrafted on our scheme of pastoral joys.

"Coming thro' the Rye" is brilliantly staged, not burdensomely costumed and has a fascinating ragtime sort of music.
Kitt, the tailor, was by all odds the brightest star and shone at his best in the Irish song of Clancy of Donegal. The soloists were not singers of surpassing merit, but the chorus was good. The pony ballet was all that was promised—a little white horse surrounded by capering fillies of a supposedly higher order of creation.
Eye was not a predominating element in the mixture of the piece and seemed merely to provide an attractive title for a light and airy composition.

A Missionary of Japan.

Miss Alice True of Amesbury, Mass., for eight years a missionary in Japan, under the auspices of the Christian society, spoke in Bethany church Sunday morning and evening on Japanese character and ideals. Her addresses were exceedingly interesting as embodying the conclusions reached by personal intercourse with the Japanese, whose Orientalism is a good deal of a mystery to Western people.

Tuesday afternoon, Miss True met the Ladies' Missionary union of Bethany church at the Parish house and explained the scope and nature of missionary labors in the flowery kingdom and told what a woman can do in Japan. Forty-two ladies were present and at the close of Miss True's remarks, tea and wafers were served by Mrs. Fraser Metzger, Mrs. E.

W. Tewksbury and Miss Kate Howard, arrayed in Japanese costumes.

Miss True, who is now a licensed preacher, has been in this country about a year but expects to return to Japan in March and will move her headquarters from Tokyo to a place farther north. She was a fellow student of Rev. Mr. Metzger in the theological seminary at Stanfordville, N. Y.

The Ladies' union, which raised about $50 for home and foreign missions last year, held its annual meeting Tuesday and elected Mrs. Metzger president; Mrs.
Mary Goldsberry, vice president and corresponding secretary; Miss Kate Howard, recording secretary, and Mrs. E. A.
Thomas, treasurer.

Evening of Hawaiian Music.

The Honolulu Students, six in number, appeared in Chandler Music hall Monday evening and gave an entertainment somewhat out of the ordinary line of musical programs. The students, whose manipulation of the English language had none of the cold crispness of the North, were evidently native Hawaiians and, though not dark-skinned, had hair black as a raven's wing and were becomingly as well as picturesquely clad in white, enlivened by red sashes and coral necklaces.

The only lady in the troupe, Madame Anchila, is